Program structure_

Programming is like a trade – practice is the most important thing. Coding Dojo's structure only involves 3 hours of instructor-led class time each day. After lunch, study if self-guided, meaning that the program only totals to 210 instructor-led hours. Codeup is full-time and gives you 670 hours of live instruction.

Curriculum_

Most bootcamps teach the same basics of web development: HTML, CSS, JavaScript, and SQL. Beyond that, there's a lot of variety. Codeup teaches an enterprise stack to suit the hiring needs of partners like Oracle, USAA, and Cognizant. While we teach 7 primary technologies, Coding Dojo teaches over 22. That means they promise to teach 300% more technologies in 69% less time. That translates to a focus on breadth over depth.

The most important skills are tools-agnostic, meaning they don't depend on a specific technology. They are things like how to think like a developer, how to de-bug code, and how to teach yourself coding languages. Learn how to learn at Codeup, and you can teach yourself anything.
